

A WINDOW IN TIME

The Grand Encampment Museum hosted Living History Days and the Mountain Man Rendezvous over the weekend.

Carol Wagnon throws her tomahawk during the ladies' competition at the Mountain Man Rendezvous Saturday afternoon.

Veronica Wall, of Copperas Cove, Texas, gets some instruction roping from Mark Dunning during Living History Days at the Grand Encampment Museum Saturday.

Landon Jones takes a turn with the Skillet Toss Saturday.

Clockwise from left, Carl Lee, Jack Siffort, Ken Campbell and Steve Flauding get in a card game at Living History Days Saturday.

Shoppers discuss wares with Flying Fingers Trading Company owner Erna La Sala, originally from Amsterdam.

Dick Perue shows Sarah Jackson how the vintage pump press works as she prints her own page.

Photos by Keith McLendon

Ali Wilson wins the kid's Fire-starting competition with the help of Marshal Hill.

A crowd gathers under view of the museum's fire tower to watch 'hawk throwing Sunday.

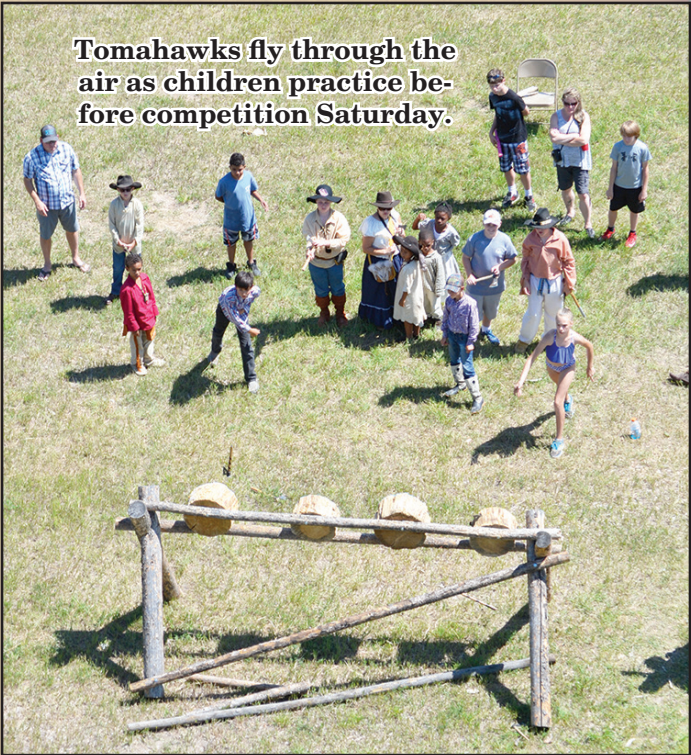

Fire erupts from Chris Nickelson's pistol during the men's Shooting Competition Saturday. Nickelson won the Men's Aggregate award for shooting

Guys get a chance to throw metal during Saturday's Skillet Toss.

Carol Lee, demonstrates weaving to Leigh Nation during Living History Days Saturday.

Tomahawks fly through the air as children practice before competition Saturday.

Children test their shrewdness during Saturday's last evening event, the Trading Blanket. Objects are put up by a trader and different items are offered in trade during the popular event.

From left, Wes mann and Steve Fletcher visit with hatmaker "Lil' Griz" Saturday afternoon.